Will to Be Contested in Behalf of Grandchildren to Whom Nothing Is Left.

BALTIMORE, May 1 .- The sensation If the hour is the will of the late Ros Revillon Winans. The cavant and friend of thrones died here six days ego, worth more than $4,000,000. The startling features of the document are that it outs off Mr. Winana's grandchildren, Gaston and Beatrice, children of the Prince de Bearn, without a penny: leaves his only sur-viving son, Thomas R. Winans, who married Victoria Delgado, the Spanish dancer, only the income from $200,000, and bestows $500,000 outright on pretty Dorothy Bateman of Newport, who won the old man's heart in the days that

The remainder of the estate is left to Ross F. Whistler, a brother-in-law, and Georges Revillon, Mr. Winana's mother's step-brother, Two old and cherished friends, Margaret M. Smith and Louis M. Butts, will receive $60,000

It will be no surprise to Baltimore to hear that Thomas Winans will also fight the will. Where he is no one knows. He the will. Where he is no one knows. He is thought to be in Spain with his denogratife and their little gird. His marriage was a shock to the proud old genteman, who remarded it as a mesalliance for a son of one of the oldest American families. It is said that the son, while accompanying his father home from Europe with Mrs. Winans' dead body, disappeared at the wharf in Havre, his father knowing nothing of what had become of him until a cabberran broke come of him until a cablegram broke the news of his wedding. Victoria Delgado was then famous al wer Europe, as was her sister, Anta Delgado, who later married the rich Saharajah of Kapurthala. "Millions of dollars could not sep-rate me from my wife and baby," young Winans declared in Paris in 1908. "But the stories that my father has rited me are untrue."
